Life is filled with periods of transition, and it all starts at birth, when a baby is yanked from the warmth and safety of the womb. No less traumatic for most children is the transition from the protective environment of the home, to the sometimes frightening school environment. And then comes the time when one must decide — often involuntarily — what to do with one's life. Transitions all of us must make. Indeed, life itself seems to be a never-ending string of transitions. In this frank novel, a young minister's wife is faced with changes, which greatly affect her view of the world, as well as her relationship with the church. THE PREACHER'S WIFE IN BONDAGE — is the story of a woman who, while striving to follow her faith, discovers that sometimes things happen in the world over which neither she nor her God seem to have any control. Society condemns her, but is she really guilty? A work of fiction, true, but one which holds a message for us all.
