The Enclosure and Redistribution of Our Land (Classic Reprint) William Henry Ricketts Curtler
Enclosure from the earliest until the latest times. In the early part I have, in order to present a consecutive story, trodden well-worn ground, and where VinogradofE, Maitland, A shley, Seebohm, Slater, Conner, Tawney, Gray, and others have worked, there is little that is fresh to be discovered. I have, therefore, relied largely on their guidance, which is freely acknowledged in the text. In the latter portion of the book I have relied mainly on my own research, and hope that I have been able to throw fresh light on several points; for instance, the expense of enclosing ;the renting of commons ;the overwhelming evidence in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries that commons did more harm than good ;the exaggerated statements so often made as to the robbery of the poor on enclosure; the many concessions made in enclosure A cts to the small holder; and the fact that it was the great landowners who were the first to try and remedy the hardships, undoubtedly wrought on many of the poor through the loss of their commons, by granting allotments. It is but tardy justice to this fast vanishing class that their efforts in this direction should be set forth. W. H. R. CURTLER. Eaton Lodge, Malvern Wells. September,
